

El Paso, Presidio, Pecos, Tom Green, and Crockett counties; El Paso the returning county.—Isaac Mullens, was born in Wayne county, Kentucky, August 8, 1819; moved to Texas, in April, 1836, and located in what is now Shelby county; and subsequently, after several removals, settled finally in Tom Green county, where he now resides; commanded a company of rangers in the Confederate service, during the war, on the northwestern frontier of Texas; and for the last forty years, from LaGrange, in Fayette county, to the head waters of the Colorado, has followed the trail of the "noble red man," with whom he has been "at variance," and is no nearer peace with them now than when he began; elected to the present Legislature, as a Democrat, and has never belonged to any other political faith.